Background: A moose named Alice trekked over 500 km from Adirondack Park in New York to Algonquin Park in Ontario. Her journey demonstrates how animals need to move through healthy, connected habitat. It inspired the Algonquin to Adirondacks Collaborative to create the A2A Trail, A Pilgrimage for Nature, which physically and symbolically connects the two parks and the peoples living between them.

The Kingston link to the Trail takes you through the heart of the Frontenac Arch along the beautiful K&P and Cataraqui Trail networks. Hike or Bike sections and follow along interpretative signage.
